Department: Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies

Position Title: Instructor/Professional Lecturer, Full-Time, Non-Tenure Track

Institution is Seeking: The Peace, Justice and Conflict Studies Program at DePaul University invites applications for a full time, non-tenure-track position with primary expertise in the fields of Racial and Restorative Justice. The successful candidate will teach courses at both the introductory and advanced levels in these and related areas of specialization and also teach sections of LSP200 Race, Power and Resistance, a university-wide liberal studies course. The position will begin in the Fall Quarter of 2023.

Qualifications: A Ph.D. is preferred at the time of appointment, but ABD candidates will be considered. Experience working with students beyond the classroom and with community organizations will be given preference.

Application Procedures: Candidates should electronically submit the following: (1) a letter of application (cover letter), (2) a CV, (3) an unofficial transcript of the last degree (earned or in progress), (4) syllabi, (5) a complete set of course evaluations, if available, (6) a Diversity Statement, and (7) a Teaching Statement. This material should be submitted via DePaul's Faculty Opportunities website at <https://academics.depaul.edu/faculty-jobs/Pages/default.aspx> Finalists will also be asked to submit three confidential letters of recommendation. The screening of applications will begin November 15, 2022 and continue until the position is filled.

Other Information: About PAX: The Peace, Justice, and Conflict Studies Program offers students a curriculum that is rooted in the values of active and strategic nonviolence. Serving over 100 majors and minors, this program encourages students to reflect critically on the origins of violence and to gain resources fostering fruitful approaches to social change, community development, restorative justice, and healing.

About DePaul: With a total enrollment over 22,000 students, DePaul is one of the largest private non-profit universities in the nation. Yet the class size in its academic programs typically does not exceed 40 students, reflecting the value the university places on teaching excellence. Our programs provide high quality, personalized, accessible education to a diverse student body, grounded in the values of St. Vincent de Paul. Our teaching and research advance knowledge and service to society. DePaul seeks applicants who reflect the diversity of its student body and the city of Chicago. Those with experience working with diverse faculty, staff, and students, and who can contribute to an inclusive climate are encouraged to apply. DePaul seeks candidates with demonstrated cultural competencies to include teaching, service and research in diverse learning communities. We urge candidates to provide examples of their successes in these areas. Women, members of historically underrepresented groups, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged to apply. For more information, e-mail PAX@depaul.edu or visit the program's web site at <https://las.depaul.edu/academics/peace-justice-and-conflict-studies/Pages/default.aspx> DePaul University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, ethnicity, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, age, marital status, physical or mental disability, protected veteran status, genetic information or any other legally protected status, in accordance with applicable federal, state and local EEO laws.
