

Submitter Institution: City College of New York

Submitter Phone: 203-549-0060

Department: The Division of Humanities and the Arts at The City College of New York

Position Title: Associate or Full Professor of Black Studies (Tenure Track)

Institution is Seeking: The Division of Humanities and the Arts at The City College of New York (CCNY) announces an open-field search for a visionary leader and teacher-scholar to serve as director/chair of the College's Black Studies Program, to lead the Program in becoming an academic department, and then to serve as its chair. This is an exciting opportunity for a candidate who would like to shape Black Studies at City College into a leader in the discipline. The successful candidate may represent any discipline or field connected to Black Studies in the Humanities and the Arts. The position will begin in the summer of 2023

Qualifications: QUALIFICATIONS Minimum qualifications include a terminal degree (typically a PhD or MFA); excellent scholarly record that warrants tenure and the rank of associate or full professor; commitment to teaching, research, and service; support for interdisciplinary research and teaching; and commitment to building and administering a program that serves diverse constituencies. Preferred qualifications include administrative experience as program director, coordinator and/or department chair; experience in college-wide faculty governance and/or curriculum bodies; and experience in a collective-bargaining environment. Priority will be given to applicants whose research and teaching compliments existing offerings of the Black Studies Program, including, but not limited to the exploration of Afro-Latin America/Afro-Latine Studies, Black Queer Studies, and Black Expressive Cultures.
